Graham Daniel - Re-Recording Mixer - Filmography

I passed my degree in Electrical & Electronic Engineering while working at Elstree Studios. The industrial training included EMI Research Laboratories, Abbey Road Recording Studios and Thames Television. I became Chief Sound Maintenance Engineer at the age of 25 in 1975 and in 1979 was appointed as Deputy Head of Post Production Facilities.

The studio provided sound transfer, projection dailies and cutting rooms for many of the now classic films based at Elstree. These included The Star Wars Trilogy, The Shining, Labyrinth, The Indiana Jones Trilogy, Who Framed Roger Rabbit and Willow. Stanley Kubrick was a respected client and telephoned regularly to discuss technical matters relating to Film Production.

The Sound Department was very successful and completed post production on many projects including The Shining, Barry Lyndon, Alien, The Hunger, Batman, The Last Emperor, Land Before Time, The Killing Fields, The Mission and Yentl. In the nineties I became a freelance Re-Recording Mixer and was fortunate to work in Germany, France, Greece and England.

Ridley Scott asked me to join Shepperton Studios in 1995. He wanted to enhance the reputation and facilities of the sound department for film post production. I am very proud to have been part of that achievement.

In 2005 we started Point1Post. It offers a range of services including a Dolby approved mixing stage, complete sound packages and my availability as a freelance Re-Recording Mixer. I have now mixed more than 120 feature films. Many of these have enjoyed both critical and commercial success around the world.
